Tualatin Valley Artists, Inc. is a non-profit corporation with 501 (c) (3) status dedicated to supporting and nurturing the visual arts in the greater Tualatin Valley area. We promote the work of local artists and developing a community appreciation and awareness of our local artists in the Tualatin Valley area.

Our member artists currently show and sell their art at Influence Gallery, 131 SE. Main St., Hillsboro. Members also conduct art education classes and seminars that cover topics of interest to artists at all level of development. Classes and seminars are available to the general public as well as members. TV Artists is a network of people who meet regularly to exchange ideas and share artistic visions, and form collaborative groups.

Members are expected to do their part in the operation of the gallery. These duties include hanging their own art for a new show each month, working as a sales person at the gallery at least one (seven-hour) day a month and participate in aspects of planning, promotion and organization of gallery activities.

The art show at Influence Gallery is rotated each month. All member artists are required to produce some new work for each show. Individual members are selected to be the feature artists each month on a rotational basis. Featured artists show a larger than normal volume of work and receive additional display space in the gallery for the month. Non-featured artist display every month in a fixed amount of space.

There is a $50 initiation fee to join the gallery plus first and last month's dues. To show your artwork in both gallery locations the cost membership in TV Artists is $50/month plus 25 percent commission on sales that goes to TV Artists; an additional five percent commission will go to the HART if sold from that gallery.
